

Doggie Beach Resort

Direction Sheet

First: Take a look at the mural background rendering. The original will be on display at Good Doggie Day Care. This is a scale painting of what the beach resort will look like. It will be about 40 feet long and 10 feet high and painted on the interior north wall at Good Doggie Day Care.

Second: Take a look at the detail mural sample of the Beagle and German Shepherd sunning on the beach, also at Good Doggie Day Care. This is how each pet caricature will be painted onto the background.

Third: Check out the master reservation list at Good Doggie Day Care. This lists all the characters that will be appearing in the mural. Think of this mural as more than just a resort, it's a theatrical production of a resort. Each character needs an actor to play all of these parts. Pick out a part for your pet and we will paint his or her caricature in that role. Some will play leading men or ladies. Some will be supporting actors, and we'll need plenty of extras.

Production: Once we have 40 roles filled out on the master list we will begin production of the background mural. The background isn't set in stone so we may make changes based on the response from you, the agent.

Development: After the background is finished we will begin developing the characters. A pencil sketch will be made of each, so we'll need good snap shots and some suggestions of how your beastie should appear. We'll be adding one or two props to each individual, but our production of doggie beach resort will be au naturel, so we'll be seeing sunglasses, maybe some hats, but no pants! Some characters will be by themselves -- some will be in a group. We'll want your approval or suggestions of the sketches but for the sake of the mural we will have the final decisions. Based on these sketches, the image will be painted in acrylic on canvas.

Finally, take note of the printed sample. Each participant will get an 11 x 17 inch print of their puppy in his or her starring role at the Doggie Beach Resort. And since each caricature will be scanned and saved as a digital file we will make your doggie's image available on just about anything: t-shirts, mugs, hats, buttons or note cards.
